Ramblers Beat Grand Five In First Of Junior Press League

In one of the most interesting games ever played on H. T. A. C.'s floor, the Ramblers beat the Grand by a score of 42 to 21.

This was the opening game for both teams in Junior Press League, making the game more interesting, and both teams were very anxious to win.

At the beginning of the game the Ramblers scored almost at will from any angle of the floor and at the same time kept the Grand from scoring any goals.

The Grand players at this time showed a fine form in the passing game and also in shooting, but were a little off form in caging them.

The Ramblers showed some fine passing and also some very clever School.

Turtle Creek Gets Another Chance To Land Syracuse Cup

Braddock High school and its coach Johnny Reed, after bringing its first Syracuse cup contender up to the finals of the W. P. I. A. L. championship, took its hardest blow late last night at a meeting of the decisions committee of the league, for its three members, J. M. McLaughlin, J. Bowers, and J. Roy Jackson, ruled that Reed used two ineligible players and forfeited the game. The committee also ruled that the game was forfeited to the losing club.

At the same time, the committee overruled the protests against New Castle, scratched all of Latrobe High school's victories which Kelly helped to win from the records, did the same to Homestead for using Bill Keigler, and sustained the ruling of the city council on the situation arising from the school's use several months ago.

Union High school of Turtle Creek, bringing the charges against Braddock, goes back into the race with New Castle, but both clubs now have to defeat ruled away and present a more serious problem to the Syracuse committee when it holds its secret meeting some time this week. Out of the whole mess Braddock is obviously the worst sufferer, for to date it is the only club that has not been defeated. Union, on the other hand, after taking a licking at the hands of Braddock two weeks ago, is apparently the only school to derive any benefit.

In the major case, that involving the two neighbors, Turtle Creek officials charge seven Braddock men with every offense ranging from violation to non-residence, eventually withdrawing five, including Barrett, track backfield man, and left only the charges against Clifford Jones, and Gusmanovic. Gusmanovic, it is said, has passed his twenty-first birthday, while Jones is claimed to have his residence at Edgewood.

GIBBONS KAYOES NORFOLK IN THE SIXTH STANZA

Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul light heavyweight, scored a technical knockout over Kid Norfolk of Baltimore, in the sixth round of what was carried to be a 15-round match, at Madison Square Garden, New York last night.

Gibbons made a quick job of his Negro opponent, cutting him up badly and then delivering the finishing blow which rendered Norfolk too helpless to continue and the referee stopped the bout. Norfolk was on the floor three times before the fight ended. Except for a bloody nose, Gibbons showed no effects of the fight.

Tiger Flowers, Atlanta, Ga. Negro middleweight, won from Johnny Wilson, of New York, on a technical knockout in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Referee Eddie Purdie stopping the fight when it was apparent that Wilson was on the verge of a knockout. The end came within five seconds of the end of the round.

ASCHMAN NAMED FOOTBALL CAPTAIN OF THE NORMAL

C. Aschman, former Charleroi High School student and for the last two years center on the California State Normal School football squad, was elected to captain the 1925 squad at the annual varsity banquet held in the gymnasium last night.

The banquet at which 16 letter men of this year's squad were present had as its toastmaster, Prof. C. D. Champlin of the school. The speakers of the evening were David Morrow, head coach of Washington and Jefferson College; John K. Tener, former governor of Pennsylvania; J. E. Matters, president of the board of trustees of the Normal School and Thomas Sloan, chairman of the athletic committee. At the close of the banquet, which officially closes a successful season for Normal boys, the letter men presented Coach P. C. Allison with a diamond scarf pin.

THE NOTRE DAMES ARE TO PLAY THE "OLD MEN"

The Notre Dames of the Hill Top Athletic club, comprised of members of the club under 23 years of age, will hold their annual football game on December 14 in the borough with the "Old Men" as their opponents. This is the annual struggle between those concerned, and considerable interest is as usual manifested. Kickoff at 2 o'clock.

The young men are of the opinion that they will win. They are comprised as to personnel of Ramblers and a few stars of the former H. T. A. C. team, such as John Estique and Ray Fay.

The "Old Men" have such stars as Samuel J. Consenery, August Arrigo, Samuel Tarzan and others.

The officials of the contest will be E. Wagner, referee; P. Wagner, umpire and Mack James, linesman.

larger capacity than the old ones, that the coal industry will fast forge toward the upper coal belts.

Owing to an increase in its coal and coke trade, the Carnegie Steel Company was forced to put the Steamer Duquesne, which has been out of use for almost two years, into commission in order to take care of the increasing business especially, the coke trade up the Allegheny river. This firm is at present shipping a combined output of 25,000 tons of coal and coke per month to the Allegheny river mills. The combined transportation fleet of this company numbers nine large all-steel steamboats at present in commission.

The United States Steamer Kittanning, Captain Silas Sayers, is at present on the docks at the United States boatyards, North Charleroi, undergoing extensive repairs to its boiler and machinery.

James Reese Sons & Company, who recently received the contract to build the engines for the new United States towboat, Penovia, now in course of construction at the United States boatyards at North Charleroi, makes report that they have them about ready to install. The Penovia will be ready to go into commission about May 1, 1925.

Wasps and Yellow Jackets

"Wasp" is the general name of a large class of insects. There are many species, both of social and solitary wasps. "Yellow jacket" is merely the name given to several species of American social wasps which belong to the genus "Vespa." The color of the body of the yellow jacket is partly bright yellow and the insects are noted for their irritability and painful stings. Yellow jackets are also called hornets. Some species live in the ground while others make paper nests suspended from a tree or bush. —Pathfinder Magazine.

Singer's Many Charms

Charlotte Henrietta Haser was a celebrated singer born at Leipzig in 1780, the daughter of the director of music in the university there. In 1804 she was engaged by the Italian opera at Dresden. Her superior voice, her fine execution and her attempt to combine the advantages of the German and the Italian methods, gave her a brilliant success. Distinguished for the correctness of her morals and her great modesty, she was received with applause at all the most celebrated theaters in Italy and Germany. —Chicago Journal.

Handed Himself Bouquet

It was once reasoning that induced Mr. Flower to conduct his own case. He was a Portuguese—so Felix Weiss, immigration inspector tells us—and appearing before the board of special inquiry, he gave his name with a flourish.

"What, Mr. Flower, was your name before you came to America?" inquired one of the board.

"Oh, he came here as a flower for American people. In San Miguel they call me Flower. You know Fama—that's flower—that's me." —Youth's Companion

Cloth From Dog's Hair

The beautiful white hair of the Samoyed dog has been woven into cloth and the commercial possibilities of the finished product have been successfully demonstrated by the Royal Society of Arts in London. The hair used was from the combings, the undercoat that falls naturally twice a year.

It Has Its Potty Value

A justice of the peace in Pittsburgh has ruled that chewing gum is a drug, and that settles another vexed question. It can't qualify as food, drink, cosmetics or green groceries and this judicial wisdom comes just in time to keep us from classifying it as a game of skill. —Tacoma Ledger.

Cold Conquers Plague

Prevalence of plague diminishes in cold weather, probably because the lower temperatures reduce the fleas to such small numbers that they are unable to keep up the transfer of virus. The existence of plague is roughly limited to a zone girdling the globe between the thirty-fifth parallels of north and south latitude. In the last 25 years 99.8 per cent of plague cases have been from areas with mean mid-winter temperatures of 56 degrees F. —Nation's Health Magazine.

Birds That Steal

A number of birds have the habit of stealing for the pure pleasure of stealing. Cases of golf balls being carried off by crows and gulls are by no means uncommon. The magpie's record as a thief has been known from time immemorial and has been celebrated both in song and story. The magpie, like the Australian bower bird, seems to possess an esthetic sense which is gratified by the acquisition of brightly-colored or glittering objects.

"The City of Palaces"

Genoa has been known as "The City of Palaces." Vienna has long been known as "The City of Harmony," a name of affection which is about all that the late war has left to the once brilliant capital of the empire of the Hapsburgs. —New York Times.

"The Golden City"

San Francisco is "The City of the Golden Gate," "The Golden City," and "The City of the Hundred Hills." Philadelphia has a great variety of claims to a character all its own, but most of the names refer to its early history. It probably would express a preference for "The City of Brotherly Love" or "The Quaker City."

Green Gold

The term green gold originated in the early days when someone declared that metals went through a process of evolution and ripened at last to a finished product. The originator of this false theory claimed to have the secret that aided gold in refining. Green gold is an alloy. When 17 per cent silver is mixed with gold, a green color is produced.

Sybaris

Sybaris (home of the Sybarites), is an ancient Greek colony in south Italy on the west side of the Gulf of Tarentum, founded by immigrants from Achaea and Troezen about 720 B. C. The city became proverbial for its wealth and luxury. The people of the neighboring Croton destroyed it thoroughly in 510 B. C., turning the river Grathis over the site.

The Man Who Succeeds

Give me the man who can hold on when others let go, who pushes ahead when others turn back; who stiffens up when others weaken; who advances when others retreat; who knows no such word as "can't" or "give up"; and I will show you a man who will win in the end, no matter who opposes him, no matter what obstacles confront him.

A Helping Hand

When you rise in the morning form a resolution to make the day a happy one to a fellow creature. It is easily done; a left off garment to the man who needs it, a kind word to the sorrowful, an encouraging expression to the striving—trifles in themselves light as air—will do it at least 101 the 24 hours.

Life

He who invests us with a new power; who summons our will to finer tasks, revives our fading hopes, recovers our lost aims, renews our youth of love and enthusiasm and helps us to read anew and better the great meaning of life—raises us from the dead.

Renan on Religion

Religions are false when they attempt to prove the infinite, to define it, to incarnate it (if I may so speak); but they are true when they affirm it. The greatest errors they import into that affirmation are nothing compared to the value of the truth which they proclaim. —Ernest Renan.

Empire of Knowledge

It is the glorious prerogative of the empire of knowledge that what it gains it never loses. On the contrary, it increases by the multiple of its own power; all its ends become means; all its attainments help to new conquests. —Daniel Webster.

Minister Burned as Witch

One of the unfortunate victims of the Salem witchcraft frenzy, in 1692 was George Burroughs, a graduate of Harvard College and a minister of the gospel. He was accused of having bewitched one Mary Wolcott.

Raphael's First Great Work

Raphael painted his first great picture in 1503, when he was only twenty. The subject is "The Coronation of the Most Holy Virgin." The famous canvas is preserved in the Vatican picture gallery.

Always Looking "Upward"

There can be no direction "up" and "down" as applied to interstellar space. These terms refer to directions from a center of gravity. Any direction away from the surface of the earth is "up"; similarly any direction in space away from the surface of any planet or star in the universe would be "up." "Down" means the direction toward the center of a body. Therefore any inhabitant of the earth looking out into space from any point on the earth is looking "upward."

Hears With Spine

The case of Eugene Buterneister, a deaf mute who hears music through his spine, is puzzling Swiss scientists. Buterneister attended a concert at Bern recently and found that he could "hear" and enjoy the music, not through the ears but through the spine. His spine seems to be a kind of lightning conductor, he explained. He can hear almost no other sound except instrumental music, however.

Animal Understanding

The animal closest in understanding to a man is the dog, but, comparatively speaking, the understanding is very slight, and is greatly bound up in the dog's instinct of self-preservation and its realization that man laughter usually worries a dog, even if it is good natured laughter. The horse, probably, comes second on the list.

He Took His Encore

It was little Ruth's first visit to the farm. She was watching a meadow lark in an adjoining field and listening to his song. In a minute he entered the house and told her aunt about it. "He sang a bit again," she said, "he just looked at me and then turned around and sang another verse."

Lightweight Church Bells

Church bells are traditionally heavy, but the new bells in a chapel near Boulogne, France, weigh one-third of what bronze bells weigh, being cast of an alloy of aluminum and copper, which insures them against rust or splitting, and which permits of a much lighter steeple frame than is usual.

Police Dogs Not Part Wolf

Police dogs are often supposed to be descended from wolves, but this is not so. They are directly descended from peaceful German shepherd dogs. The fact that there have been no wolves in France since 1835 makes the theory that they are part wolf absurd, scientists say.

Adobe Bricks

"Adobe" is a name applied to sun-dried bricks made from any suitable material which hardens on exposure to the sun. Often such bricks are made of mud and straw. This material can be used in very dry climates only.

Title Conferred by Pope

The title of Defender of the Faith, which English rulers use as one of their titles, was conferred in 1521 by Pope Leo X on Henry VIII in recognition of Henry's defense of the seven sacraments.

The Real Attraction

Jud Tinkins says the plain tilter of the soil has got to face the sad fact that the pigs and punkies at a country fair never get as much serious attention as the harness races. —Washington Star.

Unappreciated Worth

"It's kind of discouraging to plain usefulness," said Uncle Eben, "when you notice that a good work horse never gets near as much applause as a truck mule in the circus." —Washington Star.

Instant of Noon

Noon is the instant of the passing of the sun over the meridian where one happens to be; the point at which the sun overhead is equidistant from the east and west horizon.

AS TO THE ISLE OF PINES.

The Isle of Pines, to the south of Cuba, is a very pleasing bit of island territory and the many Americans who have winter residences in its charming garden spaces count on permanently hoisting the American flag over it, although a treaty relinquishing it to Cuba was negotiated long ago. But the treaty has never been ratified by the Senate, and hope and effort are based on that fact. The treaty of relinquishment was made in 1904, was favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations in 1905 and again in 1906, and is said to be likely to be brought out of its dusty pigeon-hole for consideration once more this winter. Why has there been all this delay? Is the influence of the Americans resident in the gladsome isle potent enough to render doubtful the keeping of this nation's implied promise to the Cubans? The fact that this question should be asked is not without significance. The issue will also be significant as well as interesting. Meanwhile it is pertinent to recall the opinion expressed Elihu Root in 1905—which is said to be shared by the Supreme Court—as follows:

"At the time of the treaty of peace which ended the war between the United States and Spain the Isle of Pines was and had been for several centuries a part of Cuba. I have no doubt whatever that it continues to be a part of Cuba and that it is not and never has been territory of the United States. This is the view with which President Roosevelt authorized the pending treaty and Mr. Hay signed it, and I expect to urge its confirmation. Nor would the rejection of the pending treaty put an end to the control of Cuba over the island. A treaty directly contrary to the one now pending (in 1905 and till pending) would be necessary to do that, and there is not the slightest prospect of such a treaty being made. You may be quite sure that Cuba will never consent to give up the Isle of Pines and that the United States will never try to compel her to give it up against her will."

Sweet Peaches sighed upon his neck "This suits me to a tea; Cress me again—I'm in a jam, But soda like to be."

When Liberty Party
Figured in Politics.

The Liberty party was organized in 1844, and its candidate for the Presidency in the campaign of that year was James G. Birney, originally of Kentucky, but then of New York. Birney was editor of the Emancipator, an abolitionist journal of that day, who organized the Liberty party and named himself as its candidate. Like other "personally conducted" parties, its life was brief. In the campaign of 1848 it was merged into the Free Soil party and later that and such remnants of the Whig party as were left were absorbed by the new Republican party says the Detroit News.

The election of 1844 was interesting because of several circumstances. It was a time of violent argument, of high feeling, and was marked by many and strange changes in alignment. It marked, too, the last appearance of Clay as a candidate for the Presidency, when he polled his largest vote and came within 38,000 votes of defeating Polk and achieving his life's ambition. Clay was a candidate in 1820, again in 1832, and for the last time, after twenty years' trying for the unobtainable, in 1844.

Holmes Herbert, one of the screen's most popular leading men, is to play a leading part for a change in "Up the Ladder." A Herbert specialty play of leading roles opposite Alton Robison, Lois Wilson, and Carolee Griffin.

Here Are Lions

At the corner of old maps of the world, of the Fifteenth century, may be noted a large, blank space, without form and without name, whereon these three words are inscribed: "Here are lions." This sombre corner exists also in man. The passions growl and mutter, somewhere within us; and it may be said also of our dark spot in our souls: "Here are lions."—Victor Hugo.

Somebody Forgot His Cue

It was a sleepy sort of day, the class was about half the usual size and the "prof." was calling the roll in a half-absent manner. To each name some one had answered "Here" until the name of Smith was called. Silence reigned for a moment only to be broken by the instructor's voice: "My word! Hasn't Mr. Smith any friends here?"—College Humbug.

Beet Sugar Production

When sugar first was made from beets it took about twenty tons of beets to produce one ton of sugar. Now it requires but six tons, the change being due to scientific production of the beets.—Farm and Live Stock Record

Fingerprints Do Not Change

Throughout life, in spite of sickness and of the natural change that the tissues of the entire body undergo every seven years, and are more permanent than the body, physiologists declare.

The Personal Side

Mrs. Earl Dewey of Roscoe visited with friends in Charleroi last evening.

Miss Audrey Michener of Lookout avenue is spending the day in Pittsburgh.

Howard M. Marx of this place, was a business caller in Pittsburgh yesterday.

D. R. Hornell of McKean avenue, was a business caller in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Cornelius of Monessen were visitors in Charleroi last evening.

Mrs. H. R. Randolph of Monessen spent yesterday visiting with relatives and friends in Charleroi.

Miss Margaret Berryman of Lincoln avenue, is among the local folks visiting in Pittsburgh today.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Bertche have moved from 327 Fallowfield to Oakland avenue and Sixth street.

Howard W. Owens of Crest avenue and H. W. Fellows of Washington avenue, visited in Donora this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Davis and children of Vesta No. 6 visited with the former's mother, Mrs. Jennie Davis of Washington avenue yesterday.

Miss Elsie Walls and nephew Junior Walls of South Hills, Pittsburgh, are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Dillon of Fallowfield avenue for several days.

Lawrence Gelder of this place was operated on yesterday in the Brownsville General hospital for appendicitis by Dr. Crow of Uniontown. He is getting along very nicely.

Mrs. V. J. Richardson and sister, Miss Callie E. Bell motored to Pittsburgh yesterday, where they spent the day. In the evening they attended a Steiff Reproducing Piano concert held at the Schenley Hotel given by Charles M. Steiff of Baltimore.

Sylvan Levin was the artist at the piano, while he was rendering a selection on one piano the same election was being played by a Reproducing piano.

Ancient Custom

"There's a chap I've been in a quandary about for a year," said a man, indicating another who had just passed. "I don't know whether I like him. You see, he has a prejudice against shaking hands. He just naturally won't if there is a possible chance of getting out of it. He always manages to have something else to do when a person to whom he is introduced gets ready to extend the glad hand. That chap says that hand shaking is a survival of an ancient custom that has no reason for existing today. He insists if there is anything he dislikes it is to grasp some stranger's moist paw and give it a shake, for when he does so he wants to sneak away and wash his own. I've heard him expatiate upon the subject just after avoiding a handshake with some one to whom I introduced him. I almost guess I don't like him."—Detroit News.

Ye Puritan Pessimist

Ye world is full of woe. Ye pathway of manne from ye cradle to ye grave is lined with brambles. Laughter is ever wetted with tears. An unscrupulous viper lurketh in ye classes of sparkling wine, or, anyhow it used to did so e'er prohibition came upon us. You fancy you cannot live without a certain female, and a little later, behold, you cannot live with her. You snuff ye fragrance of ye dewy rose and a gad-snapper stingeth you on ye nose. And thus it goeth, and thus, I wot, it will continue to go until ye end of time. Such being the case, there is nothing for us to do but hump our backs like an old sheep in a hail storm, pull down our hattes and thank providence for what it hasn't done to us.—Kansas City Star.

Sand Clock Was Wrong

Probably there is only one place in the United Kingdom where the sand glass is still used for timing purposes, says London Tit-Bits.

In the house of lords a sand glass—a squat, podgy-looking affair—reposes on the clerk's table, and is used to indicate the three minutes allotted to a member during which, after the declaration of division, he is entitled to record his vote.

A few years ago a member challenged the correctness of the glass, and upon a test being made he was found to be right, the sand being actually all down in two and three quarters minutes. His vote was allowed and more sand was put in the glass.

Penurious Philanthropist

ern city is looked upon as a great philanthropist and his name is a symbol of all that is noble. Strong men stop on street corners to extol his virtues. Yet I had some correspondence with him several years ago about buying a house he was handling for an estate and when the deal was closed he charged me for every stamp he had used on letters he wrote me. I insist that a man who watches pennies that closely can't be such a lovely character as his neighbors suppose.—Kansas City Star.

In Society's Realm

The Sewing Circle of the First Christian Church will have a bazaar in the basement of the church Friday and Saturday afternoon and evening. All members having articles to turn in are to bring them to the church Thursday evening or Friday afternoon. A bazaar sale will be held in addition Saturday afternoon and evening.

Last evening the members of the Sewing Circle of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church met at the home of Mrs. Harry Pearson of 523 Fallowfield avenue with 35 members present. After the business session the evening was spent in sewing and social converse. A luncheon was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Carson, Mrs. Kinder, Mrs. H. Pearson and Mrs. C. England.

Mrs. Anna Estenfelder and Mrs. Anna Schenck jointly entertained the members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Christ Lutheran church last evening.

Kean avenue. There was a good attendance and during the business meeting officers were reelected to preside during the forthcoming year. Tickets and money were turned in from the recent bazaar and supper. At the close of the business session a delicious luncheon was served by the hostesses, assisted by Mrs. J. G. Albright.

Miss Rosetta B. Rodgers, a recent missionary in the Mexican schools, gave a very interesting talk before a large assembly of Gothic Literary club members last evening in the community rooms of the Elks club. Miss Rodgers' talk was relative to Mexico and she displayed many interesting curios brought from that country. In addition to this helpful and instructive hour conducted by Miss Rodgers, Mrs. Sylvia Manon and Miss Ada McCague entertained with vocal solos that were highly pleasing. Luncheon was served in the dining room the hostesses being Mrs. Manon, Misses Irene Chester and Mary Latchem.

FIREMEN CALLED IN

A SLIGHT BLAZE

Shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon the local firemen were called to 614 Fifth street, where flying sparks and hot soot coming from the chimney of the Thomas S. Somerville home, ignited a few shingles of the roof. The fire was short-lived, however, as the firemen tore off a few of the burning shingles and returned to their quarters. No damage was done.

In Siam's Jungles

The Diard fire-backed pheasant is largely gray, varied with black, white and chestnut, with a shining gold back and bronze red rump, says Nature Magazine. The bird inhabits Siam and French Indo-China. Here it lives in bamboo thickets and jungles.

Founded by English King

The University of Goettingen, in the province of Hanover, Prussia, one of Germany's most notable seats of learning, was founded in 1734 by King George II of England, who was also the elector of Hanover.

"Corduroy"

A make of corded cloth was named from a finer fabric manufactured in France and used in the hunting habiliments of the king and his suite, then called "coru du roi, translated "the king's cord."

Americans Accorded
Honors by Britain

The first native American to be knighted by an English monarch was Sir William Pepperell, who was born in Kittery, Maine, June 27, 1686. His father was a Welshman who came to New England as a settler and a fisherman. The son became a merchant and amassed a large fortune. As a military leader he took part in several conflicts with the Indians and attained much distinction. For thirty-two years he was a member of the royal council of Massachusetts, and as chief justice of common pleas he won eminence as a jurist.

Since Pepperell's time many Americans have achieved knighthood and higher British honors. Lord Astor and Lord Shaftesbury, the former a native of New York and the latter of Milwaukee, being among the more prominent latter-day examples.

Easily Proved

At a mill in Boston the workers were having a discussion about who was the quietest man they knew.

"They got a mender to act as judge. Then they got their thinking apparatus to work, to think who was the quietest man they knew. Many hundred names were mentioned. The judge was about to give his decision mentioned one.

The judge then said: "New, Jack, does that not know any quiet man?"

"Well," said the mender, "I think I know just one."

"Well, out with it," said the judge.

"Well, I think owd Bill Kite the quietest man I know."

The mender looked surprised and then they all exclaimed at once: "Why mon, he's dead!"

"I know that. I think he's the quietest mon I know. He's never spoken to me for nearly twenty years!"—London Tit-Bits.

It Happened in Boston

There had been a visitor, and to the lad she said: "And so this is little Walter? My, my! What a big boy you've grown to be! I wouldn't have believed it possible."

"Mother," said Walter when the visitor had gone, "doesn't it pass your comprehension how persons in whom one would naturally expect an ordinary degree of intelligence appear to believe, all history and nature to me contrary notwithstanding that the children of their acquaintance will always remain infants, and persist in expressing surprise when they observe the perfectly natural increase in one's stature?"—Washington Star.

Knew His Business

The storekeeper in a little country town was a smart business man, in deed. He knew just when to strike and just when the iron was hot enough. That was how he had built up such a prosperous business. "Miss Smith," he said to one of his assistants, "do you know anything about the new minister who is coming to the town next week?"

"Yes," replied the girl, "he is a tall, good-looking man, about twenty eight, and he isn't married."

"Is that so?" said the proprietor briskly. "Miss Smith, you may put all the new hats in the shop into the front window right away."

Old Mystic Ceremonies

The Orphic mysteries were mystic ceremonies in honor of Bacchus (Dionysus) Zagreus, observed by the followers of Orpheus at a very early period in the history of Greece. These Orphic worshippers of Bacchus, however, did not practice the licentious rites usually characteristic of the "Dionysia" or "Bacchanalia," but aimed rather at an ascetic purity of life. They dressed in white linen garments and ate no animal food save what was yielded by the ox sacrificed to Dionysus.—Kansas City Star.

Girl Shoots as

Harry A. Dayton, above, U. S.
vice counsel at Belgrade, is fighting to recover from three bullet wounds inflicted by Anna Onson-paitais, a beautiful Lithuanian girl who followed him from Kov-na to Belgrade and who feared that his love had grown cold. She killed herself with a razor after shooting him.

Hints on Behavior

Talk often, but never long, in that case if you do not please, at least you are sure not to tire your hearers. Pay your own reckoning, but do not treat the whole company; this being one of the few cases in which people do not care to be treated, every one being fully convinced that he has wherewith-al to pay—Lord Chesterfield.

What's the Use?

An animal trainer explained that it is easy to tell when a lion is in a bad humor and likely to spring. The beast's eyes are dilated and the pupils show green. The only trouble about it is that if you are near enough to see the signs of danger it is too late to do anything about it.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Is your wife wiser than you?

If you read only the stock and sporting pages, and your wife is like other women, she is wiser than you. She reads the shopping news.

She likes to hear you jingle money in your pockets. She likes to stretch money to the limit, so she won't have to ask for more. She likes to shop strategically. Know what she does?

Comfortably at home in a cushiony armchair, she scans advertising columns. She compares, judges and selects the goods she desires; maps
her route; with least effort and minimum time, goes direct to the planned store and buys.

She obtains what she wants at the lowest price it is offered. She is certain of full satisfaction, for she knows advertised goods live up to their claims.
She saves time and steps, and returns sufficiently alert to enjoy new advertisements—and to prepare you an appetizing dinner.

These advertisements are written for your benefit, too. Read them. Help her to help you save.

ARMY LEFT-OVERS
CLOTHES NATIONSChina, Albania and Even French Wearing 'Em.

Paris.—The stocks of left-over American war supplies, the sale of which, while incidentally helping the French treasury out to the amount of about 6,000,000,000 francs, developed so many stories of graft, will be entirely liquidated. It is now thought, in about ten years. They are almost entirely out of government hands, so that the minister of finance no longer includes the proceeds from them in estimates of the year's receipts.

If one goes to the right places it is still possible to find big piles of khaki breeches, shirts and coats, along with all sorts of odds and ends from the war. They are mostly in the hands of second-hand dealers, having successfully passed from the big operators to wholesalers and thence to foreign governments or French hand-me-down establishments.

China, Albania, Turkey and Armenia provided large markets for old American uniforms and about 8,000 overseas caps went to Albania. Miners in northern France, newboys, bi-around Paris have been the most faithful individual customers of khaki breeches.

Measures Fluctuations
in Pressure of Air

Prof. Charles F. Marvin, chief of the United States weather bureau, is shown here with the recording mercurial barograph, an instrument made and perfected by the bureau under his supervision, measuring on a magnified scale, the fluctuations in the pressure of the air.

Farmer Sells Two Logs
from Old Tree for $113

Mankato, Minn.—Selling black walnut logs is a sideline in the farming business of E. S. Schloeman owner of the Riverview stock farm near Judson. He brought in two recently cut and eight feet in length, for which he was paid $113 (cash). The logs were cut from a tree said to have been 247 years old.

Mr. Schloeman, taking of systematic farming, said: "Any farmer who won't get any money in his till this fall has himself to blame. He has either been driving around in his auto or loafing. During the year I have put up 450 tons of hay and have 70 acres of alfalfa yet to put up. It will probably go four and one-half tons to the acre."

"There are 500 tons of ensilage in the silo and I have 100 acres of corn that will go 75 bushels or better to the acre. At least 75 per cent of it will be suitable for seed. Last year I sent seed corn to most of the states in the Midwest and it all tested 100 per cent. I don't waste any manure and last spring hauled out on the land more than 600 loads."

England Has One Spot
Where All Are Thriving

London.—Hayling island is about the only place in England where there is no unemployment.

The island, in the Southampton area, has a prosperous population of about 3,000 and at present no one there is receiving a penny from the national unemployment fund. The men and women of the island are all busy in the fields, in the fishing grounds and the shops.

The mackerel season, which is just over, has been the best in years and the harvest, unlike the rest of England, is bountiful.

Last year the population of one of the two towns on the island dropped from 800 to 500 because the price of farm products went up. The people had gone back to the fields.

Detective Arrests His Man.
Riveter, 350 Feet in the Air

Camden, N. J.—"Come and get me," was the message sent by Abel Jones, Norfolk, Va., a riveter atop the Delaware River bridge, to Howard Smith, a Camden detective, waiting at the foot of the structure with a fugitive warrant.

Smith took a look at the 350-foot climb, reached a ladder and climbed in the crude elevator used by the workmen and was shot to the top; where he made an aerial arrest. The warrant charged Jones with non-support of his wife and three children in Norfolk.

Republican Ideals

The government of man by man, of the coarser, under body of a nature by its finer soul, by its best men, set up to rule not because they are intrinsically different from the nature which they govern, but because they are its true self—this is the meaning of republican institutions.—Phillips Brooks.

Big Lightning Loss

Lightning is a formidable enemy of mankind and its investigation is, therefore, one of the practical problems of electrical engineering, says Nature Magazine. Fires due to this cause destroy about twenty million dollars' worth of buildings in the United States every year.

The Life of a Hair

Hair grows at the rate of .018 inch a day, but the life of each individual hair is on an average only six years. Then it falls out. If hair never fell out and always went on growing, a woman seventy years old would have tresses nearly 38 feet in length.

Suicide in Sleep

"I dreamt that I had done it," he wrote in a moment of consciousness "I awoke to find it true." A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned.

A Scotsman was found dead in front of a 1-cent public machine. The coroner found that death had been caused by over-excitement. Investigation disclosed a sign reading: "Your penny returned if you hit hard enough!"—American Legion Weekly.

Early Chess Players

Chess was first known to the Hindus as "chaturanga." From India the game was carried into Persia, its name being changed into "shatranj." From Persia the game passed into Arabia, and thence to central and western Europe.

Uncle Eben

"My ole mule," said Uncle Eben, "balked in de middle of de road, held up a line o' fivers an' kicked at de traffic cop. An' I says to myself, 'Mistoh Mule, you may have a bad disposition, but you sho' has got courage.'"—Washington Star.

Early American Warship

The United States frigate Essex was the first American warship to appear in the Pacific ocean, where she operated from March 1813, until January 12, 1814. She was destroyed by two British ships off Valparaiso in March 1814.

Goetz of the Iron Hand

Goetz von Berlichingen, one of the leaders of the peasants, in 1325, lost his right hand in battle and it was replaced by an iron hand. Whence he was called "Goetz of the Iron Hand."

Heavy Bird Slaughter

More birds are killed in flight every year by rural telephone, telegraph and electric wires and poles and by the domestic cat than by the guns of sportsmen, it is contended by competent authorities.

Smallest Bible

The Bible institute of Washington says that the smallest Bible for circulation is 1 1/4 inches by 1 1/4 inches. It is known as the mite Bible, and a magnifying glass comes with the book.

Was Egyptian General

Gen. Charles Pomeroy Stone, who was in charge of the erection of the pedestal of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor spent 13 years in the service of the khedive of Egypt.

Making Life Worth While

It is faith in something and enthusiasm for something that makes a life worth looking at.—Oscar Wendell Holmes.

Costly Idol Worship

Many even poor Chinese, it is said, spend from 20 to 25 per cent of their income in idol worship, which practically eats away their capital.

Bathroom Innovations

The first bathroom cabinet with an accessory was a soap holder which originally appeared on the market in 1924.

Whitewashing Hint

Alum added to whitewash will prevent its rubbing off.

Old Age Comes When

People Quit Growing

Most people want to grow. They would like to advance in their work, earn more, have greater influence, do bigger things. Yet, strange as it may seem, the world is full of people who do not "grow up." They have lost the secret of their youthful days. They come to a halt in self-development, and folks say they are getting "old." But a person is never old until he quits growing; and he need not quit growing until the end of his years. The most conspicuous fact about great men—men who do big things, and keep doing them—is that they never cease growing. They are perpetually young. They have the real thing, of which Ponce de Leon's Fountain of Youth was only an imitation. If a man sets his heart upon growing, he has but three things to do: First, he must be a learner all his life. Then, he must be a thinker—and must think hard. Finally, he must be a doer. Some people are long on thinking, but short on doing. They are dreamers. Success and rewards always come to the person who continues to grow, but the greatest reward consists in having found the secret that makes life continuously interesting.—Forbes Magazine.

Heavy Drinking Marked

Festivities of Greeks

The festival of Dionysus had an important influence on the life of ancient Greece, as well as on its literature and art. There were four of these every year in the Detroit notes. One was celebrated when the new wine was tasted for the first time and plentiful drinking was characteristic of this festival. A great banquet accompanied the festivities. A feature of another festival, also in honor of the wine god was a drinking contest. At a signal given by a trumpet, all who took part in it set their pitchers to their mouths and the judges allotted the victory to him who first emptied his. The prize consisted of a skin of wine, or some other thing of that sort. Besides the public banquet there were also private hostilities provided for those who preferred to celebrate the day by themselves in the circle of a few intimate friends and at these also much drinking went on.

Good Word for Wasps

The insects eaten by wasps include bud and blossom destroyers, leaf rollers and miners, stem-borers and leaf cutters—minute vegetarian pests that we are doing our best to exterminate by sprays and insecticides.

Another point to be noted is that while the wasp catches and eats the egg-laying insect itself, our sprays and insecticides can aim only, or chiefly, at killing the grub, and when that grub is safely buried inside a stem or a fruit bud, then we are absolutely helpless. So, in spite of its sting and its liking for fruit when on holiday in autumn the wasp is far more of a friend than a foe.—Exchange.

Heavy Ascot Stakes

It is recorded that in 1791 George III witnessed a most sensational race at the famous Ascot track, for the Outlands stakes. Nineteen horses ran for the then colossal stakes of approximately $150,000, and it is said that five million dollars changed hands. Five of the horses ran neck and neck to within a few yards of the winning post, and Chifney, on the tuck prince of Wales' Baronet, snatched a seemingly miraculous victory by a bare half-length. "I made fourteen baronets last week," said George III to his son when congratulating him "and your Baronet is worth all mine put together."

Ninepins 700 Years Old

According to Doctor Ebstein, German scientist, the first trace of the game of ninepins was discovered in an old chronicle of Paderborn, Prussia. Paderborn is the seat of the Episcopal church of Westphalia province. And here some 700 years ago the ecclesiastics invented the game, which they played during Lenten season. They put up nine wooden pins, at which they threw balls. These balls they called "heathen." At first only three balls were used, but later the number was increased until, as at present, seventeen balls were used.

Famous Roman Highway

The Appian way was constructed as a military road from Rome to Capua, a distance of about 132 miles, by the Emperor Appius Claudius about 312 B. C., and was later extended to Brundisium, a total of about 360 miles, and completed by Julius Caesar. It was known as "the Queen of Roads" and was adorned with statuary and pagan temples. It was built without regard to cost by slave labor, and is said to have been in excellent condition 800 years after its completion. To build such a road today would cost in the neighborhood of $250,000 a mile.

Origin of Canaries Obscure

The Biological survey says that the actual origin of the canary as a cage bird is obscure. It seems probable that captive canaries were first secured from the Canary islands, but it is doubtful that this stock has furnished material for all our canaries of this kind. The serin finch of middle and southern Europe is so similar that it may often have been captured and accepted as a canary, and interbred until all distinguishable differences were lost.

Record Stone Monolith

Stone mountain, about 16 miles from Atlanta, Ga., is the largest stone monolith in the world. This huge rock contains 16,000,000,000 cubic feet of exposed granite. One of the greatest undertakings of the present is the carving of the Confederate memorial upon its face.

Wail of the Profiteer

Mrs. Bullion, writing to the principal of the school attended by her daughter: "Dear Madam—My daughter Charlie informs me that last year she was obliged to study vulgar fractions. Please do not let this happen again. If my child must study fractions, let them be as refined as possible."

Caste Rules Important

Every Hindu even a child carries his individual drinking bowl. The bowl is generally filled with water. The custom arises from the fact that no Hindu may drink water which has been drawn by a person of the wrong caste, or may he drink water upon which a low-caste person has looked.

Marked Early Drug Stores

The use of colored lights in drug store windows originated in English apothecary shops. The streets were drug store, being an important place to locate in some emergencies, adopted the colored lights as a distinguishing mark.

The Vicious Idler

Prison Razed by Mob

The Bastille, celebrated stone prison in Paris, was begun in 1370, and additions were made at later periods. On July 14, 1789 it was taken by the revolutionists. By May 21, 1791, it was completely demolished.

Hazardous Performance

Hanging by his feet from one end of a huge revolving beam, which is balanced on a steel tower and is revolved by an airplane at the other end, a performer has been giving thrills to amusement park crowds in England.

First Steel Pens Costly

When steel pens first appeared in England, in 1593, they were sold for from $2 to $8 each. In the course of ten years, so great was the production and competition, that the price dropped to 12 cents.

25 Miles to the Gallon
58 Miles per Hour
5 to 25 Miles in 8 Seconds

There is a vast difference between the new good Maxwell and any other four-cylinder car you have ever driven. It is a difference you cannot discover in a showroom.

Take the car out on the road and learn what these new and finer results are that Maxwell-Chrysler engineers have developed from a four.

Speed, 58 miles an hour—acceleration, 5 to 25 miles in 8 seconds—a performance always smooth, quiet, untroubled, and riding qualities the car has never possessed before. And when the car is in service, a gasoline mileage of 25 miles to the gallon.

In every phase of performance and ownership the new good Maxwell is superior in value to anything in its field and at anywhere near its price.

Touring Car, $895; Sport Touring, $1055; Roadster, $865; Club Coupe, $1025; Club Sedan, $1095; Sedan, $1345. All prices f.o.b. Detroit subject to current government tax.

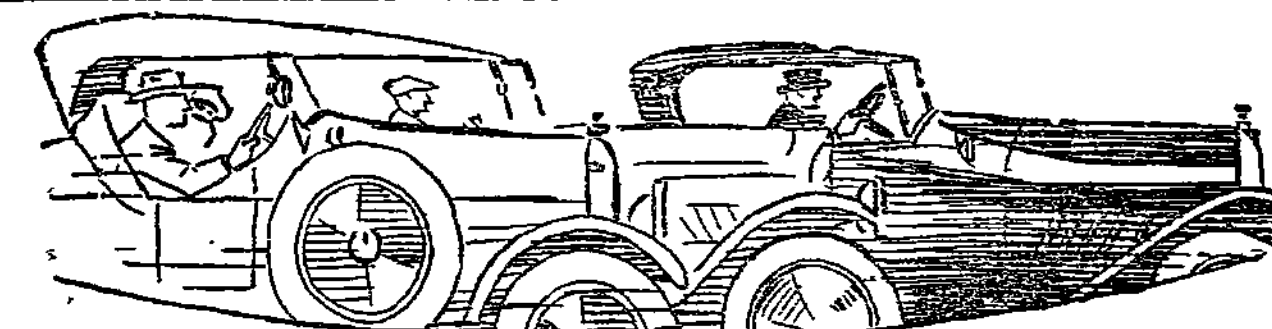

We are pleased to extend the convenience of time-payments. Ask about Maxwell's attractive plan.

Origin of Expression "Skeleton in Closet"

"There is a skeleton in every house" is said to be an old saying taken from an Italian humorous story. But the expression "skeleton in the closet" has been popularized by an English story. A woman had an only son who was a skeleton in the closet. One day the mother received a letter from her son with this strange request: "Pray, mother, get someone who has no cares and troubles to make me six shirts." The mother searched in vain for such a person. Finally she called upon a woman who invited her to go with her to a bed room. The strange woman then opened a closet which contained a human skeleton. "Madam," she said, "I try to keep my trouble to myself, but every night my husband compels me to kiss that skeleton, who was once my husband's rival and whom he killed in a duel. Think you that I am happy?" The mother immediately wrote to her son and told him her experiences and the son replied: "I knew when I gave the commission that everyone had his cares, and you, mother, must have yours. Know then that I am condemned to be executed and can never return to England. Mother, mother! there is a skeleton in every house."—Pathfinder Magazine

British Capital Once Site of Vast Forests

Large areas of the land on which the British metropolis stands once formed a great charcoal district from which practically the whole of the city's fuel came. Vast forests of oak, beech and ash trees covered these areas, which included Notwood—the Great North Wood—Croydon, Spenlun and Forest Hill. In those far on days of the fourteenth century coal was not allowed to be burned, as it was considered that the smoke was dangerous to health. It is not exactly easy to see how this could be so, for the smoke from charcoal burning is, to say the least of it, most unpleasant. One bishop, who had his palace at Croydon, was greatly annoyed by a charcoal burner, who lit his fire right under his lordship's windows, filling the palace with the fumes of the smoking wood. The charcoal burner was regarded in those times as a sinister figure, and was often credited with being in league with witches and devils.

Betel Nut Mars Beauty

The country folk (of Java) themselves, conscious of their ornate setting, were dressed for the part. A group of those women, moving in a musical comedy, would give a theatrical manager complete assurance in the matter of his box office receipts. They are so modest and polite that they never stare at a stranger; though with such figures, eyes and coloring, I doubt whether he would object greatly if they did. Their manners are perfect, except that most of them chew betel nut, and casually make railway platforms and footpaths dis- tressing with red maculations. It is shocking to see a beautiful woman laugh, when her opened mouth looks as though a savage blow had just seriously wounded it.—H. M. Tomlinson in Harper's Magazine

Building Trades' God

Lupan is the name of the god which the members of the Peking building trades worship. Lu is the name of a kingdom, in the Chow dynasty (1122-221 B.C.), and Pan is the name of a skilled mechanic of that time. He is frequently mentioned in the classics as an inventor of mechanical devices. From him the guild of the building trades derives its name, says the Detroit News. The guild includes carpenters, masons, bricklayers, blacksmiths and painters. The meeting always takes place in the Tung-chung temple, outside Chienmen, which was erected for the worship of Yo Fel. The latter is the famous patriotic general of the Sung dynasty (960-1276 A.D.) It is not known why the building trades chooses this temple for its meeting place.

Brings Good and Bad Luck

There are numerous superstitions associated with the hearing of the cuckoo's first call. In the maritime Highlands and Hebrides, if the cuckoo is first heard by one who has not broken his fast, some misfortune is expected. Indeed, besides the danger, it is regarded a reproach to one to have heard the cuckoo while hungry. In France, to hear the cuckoo for the first time fasting is to make the hearer "an idle do nothing for the rest of the year," or "to numb his limbs" for the same period. There is a similar belief in certain parts of the west of England. In Northumberland one is told, if walking on a hard road when the cuckoo first calls, that the ensuing season will be full of calamity; to be on soft ground is a lucky omen.

Grease and Diamonds

In South Africa mines grease is an important aid in the extraction of diamonds. A table with a rilled top is smeared with about half an inch of grease. Concentrated ore is then passed over the table with the aid of running water. Garnet and olivine have no affinity for grease, but diamonds adhere to the greasy surface. The grease is then washed off, heated, and run off, the diamonds being left in the vessel. They are then boiled in sulphuric acid, for cleansing purposes, and sorted.

Okay!

I stole a kiss the other night,
My conscience hurts, alack!
I think I'll call another night,
And put the darn thing back.

Flowers in Lily Family

The lily family is noted for beauty of flowers, including the tulips, the hyacinths, the dog-tooth violets, the Mariposa lilies, the day lilies and, of course, the true lilies. Of the true lilies, the genus Lilium, there are as many as 400 different kinds or species. Many of these are, however, rare and unknown to cultivation. Only about 50 kinds are known to flower growers and of these only about 25 are well known.—Detroit News.
